A bullet-train full of celebrities

Hussam Jefee-Bahloul MD
UMass Medical School

Follow this and additional works at: https://escholarship.umassmed.edu/soc Part of the Digital Humanities Commons, Medical Humanities Commons, and the Poetry Commons

Copyright The Author(s).

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-No Derivative Works 4.0 License.

Recommended Citation Available at: https://escholarship.umassmed.edu/soc/vol2/iss2/1.
A bullet-train full of celebrities

Hussam Jefee-Bahloul

Life and what it passes on, remind me of you—panoramic elevators and Richard Dawkins’ book about some selfish genes weird colors and that “hippie” scent illuminating the air roasted coffee beans the texture of old books the sound of a window squeaking on its track and that moment when winter blows against the glass
life and what it passes on, remind me of you—peoples’ necks moles spreading on bountiful acres of flesh like a chair rocking alone on the porch of this universe life and what it passes on, remind me of you—Julia Robert’s smile Monica Bellucci’s tan and that wicked attractiveness of Scarlet Johansson
life and what it passes on, remind me of you—dancing reflections on store fronts hunger and crying babies the smell of French fries and the taste of the blues after midnight so, it becomes a habit… every time I sit in a bullet-train going from B to A I close my eyes dismantle the wheels and windows enter the memory space— and use your carefully uploaded portraits to build a photo exhibit.