Characteristics of Contemporary Clubhouses: Results from International Clubhouse Surveys

Colleen E. McKay

University of Massachusetts Medical School

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Follow this and additional works at: https://escholarship.umassmed.edu/psych_cmhsr

Part of the Health Services Research Commons, Psychiatric and Mental Health Commons, Psychiatry Commons, and the Psychiatry and Psychology Commons

Repository Citation

This material is brought to you by eScholarship@UMMS. It has been accepted for inclusion in Implementation Science and Practice Advances Research Center Publications by an authorized administrator of eScholarship@UMMS. For more information, please contact Lisa.Palmer@umassmed.edu.
Characteristics of Contemporary Clubhouses: Results from International Clubhouse Surveys

Colleen McKay, MA, CAGS, Director, Program for Clubhouse Research, Research Instructor, Department of Psychiatry, Center for Mental Health Services Research, University of Massachusetts Medical School

The Clubhouse Model

The Clubhouse Model of Psychosocial Rehabilitation originated at Fountain House in 1948. Currently, over 100 member-recognized ICCD Clubhouses are operating, primarily supported by the International Center for Clubhouse Development (ICCD). ICCD Clubhouses are funded in the manner that respects from various earned direct and indirect streams, which provide income to cover the costs of operations. Participating members are encouraged to provide work in the clubhouse, which provides services and opportunities for life. Each member belongs to one of the ICCD clubhouse, chooses the level of integration with the work and work ethic, and can access the resources offered. The role of the clubhouse is to help everyone get back on track, get back on the job market, and/or attend educational programs.

Clubhouse Employment Services & Supports

- Employment is a right of all membership. - Clubhouse staff are committed to helping members achieve competitive employment. - The Transitional Employment (TE) program is a three-tiered approach to employment. Employment services are based on the availability of housing, income opportunities, and meaningful activities. - The clubhouse does not provide absence coverage but supports staff in their personal and professional needs. - The clubhouse provides access to all the resources offered. - Each member belongs of his or her own free will, chooses the level of integration with the work and work ethic, and can access the resources offered.

The International Center for Clubhouse Development (ICCD)

Established in 1994, the ICCD supports and coordinates the development of ICCD Clubhouses around the world. It provides technical assistance to the Clubhouse Model through a methodology known as Clubhouse Training (CT). In addition, the ICCD maintains a network of affiliated ICCD Clubhouses in Europe, Asia, and Australia. The ICCD also provides ongoing technical support on the clubhouse model and assists ICCD Clubhouses in preparing for certification.

Clubhouse Standards

- Clubhouse Characteristics: The Clubhouse Model is a client-centered model of psychosocial rehabilitation that is available to all individuals who are interested in participating in the program. The model is based on the principles of self-determination, empowerment, and community inclusion.

Clubhouse Organizational Characteristics

- Organizational Characteristics: The Clubhouse Model is a client-centered model of psychosocial rehabilitation that is available to all individuals who are interested in participating in the program. The model is based on the principles of self-determination, empowerment, and community inclusion.

Clubhouse Services

- Clubhouse Services: The Clubhouse Model is a client-centered model of psychosocial rehabilitation that is available to all individuals who are interested in participating in the program. The model is based on the principles of self-determination, empowerment, and community inclusion.

Clubhouse Aspects

- Clubhouse Aspects: The Clubhouse Model is a client-centered model of psychosocial rehabilitation that is available to all individuals who are interested in participating in the program. The model is based on the principles of self-determination, empowerment, and community inclusion.

Clubhouse Effectiveness

- Clubhouse Effectiveness: The Clubhouse Model is a client-centered model of psychosocial rehabilitation that is available to all individuals who are interested in participating in the program. The model is based on the principles of self-determination, empowerment, and community inclusion.

Clubhouse Surveys

- Clubhouse Surveys: The Clubhouse Model is a client-centered model of psychosocial rehabilitation that is available to all individuals who are interested in participating in the program. The model is based on the principles of self-determination, empowerment, and community inclusion.

References

Contact Information

Colleen McKay, MA, CAGS
E-mail: colleen.mckay@umassmed.edu
The Program for Clubhouse Research, Center for Mental Health Services Research, Department of Psychiatry, University of Massachusetts Medical School, Worcester, MA 01655.