First Steps & Beyond: Incorporating Shared Decision Making (SDM) in Massachusetts Mental Health Services (Report & Recommendations from the 2009 Summit)

Shared Decision Making (SDM) is the process in which provider and consumers participate in all phases of the decision making process and together negotiate a treatment to implement.*

SDM –THE JOURNEY SO FAR

1990: M-POWER1 studies legal & ethical requirements to informed consent

2000: M-POWER joins DMH2 medical directors to meet statewide group of DMH psychiatrists to discuss informed consent

1991: M-POWER1 studies legal & ethical requirements to informed consent

1996: M-POWER and DMH reach a consensus to implement informed consent policy

2009: DMH: Procures CBFS3 treatment model to use in outpatient services

2009: DMH and CQI4 hold a SDM summit in June

2008: MBHP5 selects CommonGround6 for use with psychiatrists at three outpatient clinics

Key Findings From The 2009 SDM Summit

- Providers have concerns that many consumers lack the resources and support to actively participate in SDM.
- Consumer's racial, ethnic and cultural background can affect his or her views about health conditions and treatments.
- SDM require new kinds of provider training.
- Peer specialists have the potential to serve as effective decision coaches.

Moving Forward

- State policy and opinion leaders should send clear message that SDM is critical to high quality care.
- SDM initiative should take into account racial, ethnic and cultural factors of SDM.
- A workforce training strategy should be developed.
- The roles of peer specialists should be formalized.
